Travertine
Travertine

is the most widely used natural stone - forming around hot springs and in wet caves. It has a very coarse texture with many holes created by air bubbles and living organisms trapped in the rock. It can be several different colors depending on which minerals have penetrated it, including white, yellow, beige, or red. Travertine can be found all over the world, but the most popular source is Tivoli, Italy. The Romans first used it as a building material for temples, monuments and amphitheaters. It is available in multiple dimensions, shapes and finishes. It is very easy to maintain, and the rich tones enhance its natural beauty.

Quartzite
Quartzite is a hard, non-layered rock which originated as sandstone but has been converted through heating and pressure. It is extremely dense and resists chemical weathering. It can be polished to a high-gloss finish yet is non-slippery and can be used in commercial application.

Quartzite can be found all over the world and can vary in color from the common white/gray to pink, red, yellow, green, blue and orange.
Flagstone

is most often used in building and landscaping. Because it is split into thin layers, it can be used in many applications. It can be quarried in many places, including Texas, Arizona, Oklahoma, Arkansas and even the Western Coast of Ireland. The colors most commonly found are red, pink, peach, chocolate and beige.

It is ideally used in a range of projects because it comes in a variety of colors, is widely available, is durable, and has a natural non-slip surface. It’s often used in paving, bench seats, roofing and fences.

Limestone
Limestone is an organic rock formed from the accumulation of shell, coral, and algae. It is mostly formed in shallow, warm water. Because of impurities such as clay, sand, organic remains and other materials, Limestone can exhibit different colors - especially on weathered surfaces. It can be found all over the world and can be used in glass making, chalk and even toothpaste!
If you love to swim and you want to improve the design of your home, then adding a pool is a great idea. The good news is that you don’t have to go overboard - even a small pool with a spectacular design can make your home more sophisticated and can also provide you and your family with many great memories during the summer.

Add features to your pool! A waterfall is not only very beautiful but is also relaxing. The sound of falling water can have a positive effect as it helps to relieve stress. You can also add lights in different colors which will make the whole pool glow during the night. This is a great feature if you are planning to spend a lot of evenings with your friends and family by the pool.
This is a great way to extend your living area outdoors and provide a location for the ultimate pool party. You can add a grill, refrigerator, sink, and more.

Add an outdoor kitchen area

A fireplace or fire pit will enhance your backyard pool experience year round. These gorgeous focal features can take on the design and feel of the house, backyard, or patio. A fireplace is more of a daily focal feature, but as the night cools off, it becomes the center of the party. A fireplace is typically located on the edge of a patio, whereas a fire pit can be in the center.

With several great ideas, you can turn your pool into the most beautiful spot of your entire home. It won’t just be a place where you can cool off during the hot summer days, but also a place where you can gather with your friends and have a great time or relax during the weekends.

In many areas, backyards can be enjoyed throughout the entire year.

When the weather gets cold though, a great way to keep the activities going is through the addition of a fire feature.

A fire feature is one of the most popular outdoor additions to a pool area. Gas fireplaces and fire pits can be wood burning or - like grills - they can burn natural gas or liquid propane which can require the coordination of several key elements - masonry, gas and plumbing, and stonework.

But whichever you choose, fire features create beautifully, aesthetic places to gather with family and friends and provides warmth for those chilly nights!

fireplaces

A fireplace can be a beautiful focal feature added to the pool area - designed to complement both the pool and the home's design. Located on the edge of the pool or patio, they provide lighting in addition to warmth. Fireplaces can be pre-fabricated custom-built and constructed from a variety of materials to blend into your landscape.

A fireplace is the best way to make a statement in any backyard landscaping or pool project. This feature can take on the design and feel of the house, backyard, or patio. As the night cools off, a beautiful fireplace becomes the center of any party!
A fire pit is one of the most common fire features and has practically become a standard backyard installation. Fire pits can range from 3’ wide to as much as 6’ or greater! Many pre-fabricated fire pits are available, or they can easily be custom-built to the owner’s or designer’s specifications. A fire pit can be wood burning or set up for natural gas or propane. A wood fire pit can be a great addition but requires cleanup, so many homeowners prefer a quick and easy gas setup. Fire pits have become popular because of their ability to be the center of an evening of fun, with everyone gathered around it.

Other interesting fire features include bar and table fire pits. “Ready-to-finish” fire features are a fast, easy, and efficient way to build custom fire features. Assembly is easy and sometimes, no serious carpentry or masonry skills are needed.

Combine elements by adding fire pits or fire lines to your swimming pool area. Customize anything from the size, shape, and finish to the type of fire rock used.

One of the newest trends in pool fire features are fire walls. Most of these walls have flames coming from the top, illuminating the night sky. They can also be equipped with water features. Fire water fountains combine the calming sounds of water with the brilliance of fire.

With the addition of a fire feature, cool weather doesn’t have to bring a halt to your backyard fun!

NPT® Interior Pool Finishes are exquisite mixtures of color and texture in an array of spectacular blends.

Subtle changes in appearance, created by the play of sunlight and shade, are part of the inherent beauty of your pool finish.

While our formulas are accurate & consistent,
the color of your pool’s water will be uniquely yours.

The secret to having beautiful pool water is selecting the right interior pool finish for you.

How do you know
what’s right for you?

Ask your builder to show you other pools in your area and samples of various finishes to help you with your decision. You may also visit nptpool.com/finishes to find out more information on pool finishes available to you and view our water color gallery at:
 nptpool.com/finishes/water-color.
First, decide whether you would like the water in your pool to appear blue or green.

For water that looks primarily blue, select a finish with white, blue, or gray pigment. For water that appears green, look for green, tan, brown or black pigment.

The darker your finish, the darker your pool water will be.

The deeper the water, the darker it will appear. Water will seem lighter in shallower areas like steps, ledges, benches, and beach entries where the finish itself is more visible.

Since your pool water will mirror its surroundings, many other factors will impact water color:

- The design, shape, and depth of your pool
- The time of day and position of the sun
- Whether the sky is sunny, stormy, or overcast
- Your region of the country
- The chemistry of your water
- Landscaping, trees, bushes, & other foliage
- Colors in your home’s exterior

The color of your pool’s water will be uniquely yours.
An outdoor kitchen makes entertaining for large groups much easier, as all food and food prep items are in one place. An outdoor kitchen usually has a grill, a small refrigerator, a sink, seating and tables.

Having an outdoor kitchen keeps trips in and out of the house to a minimum, thereby decreasing bugs in the house (especially in mosquito season) and reducing the chance of spillage on carpets and other flooring that may be difficult to clean. Outdoor kitchens are usually used during the warm months, but in milder climates, they can be enjoyed throughout the year. Some people enjoy the cooler fall air and tend to entertain more during the fall. It lends to an enjoyable day outside instead of spending all day cooking inside. The outdoor kitchen also affords the host the opportunity to mingle with guests during meal preparation.

There are many types of outdoor kitchens, from a simple grill and countertop setup to a more elaborate kitchen with a sink, counter, cupboards, grill, stovetop and refrigerator. The type you choose will depend on how often you entertain, how big the groups you entertain are, and of course, how big your pocket is. Cooking implements may include gas grills, charcoal grills, wood smokers or fire ovens.

Outdoor kitchens can range from a small area of under a couple hundred square feet up to as large as you would like it to be. The larger the area, the more kitchen equipment and seating you can fit into your outdoor kitchen.
Outdoor Kitchen Accessories

Having a quality outdoor grill is great for those summer barbeques or fall family gatherings. However, many times you get stuck running through the house for supplies and refreshments. Complete your outdoor kitchen with accessories that allow you to spend more time with your guests and less time in the house. Accessories can include a gas tank, warming drawers, refrigerator, bar caddy, side burner, ice chest and more.

Once you have decided which accessories to add to your outdoor kitchen, customize the look to create a unique space.

The size and shape of your island can be tailored depending on the allotted area and accessories you wish to include. Finish the look by selecting your veneer and countertop materials from a wide range of options to match your space and style.

You’ll be ready for your next outdoor party in no time!
